Not everyone has been as lucky, a lot of shuttles have been going down. I heard Cole did. I know you still don't really like him but we started talking again and a few others were with him. I'm not sure if they made it out yet. There's been ghosts too. Only one I recognised but we were sneaking through an area and managed to avoid them then.

The Force is acting really strange, I know Mer'lin would find it fascinating. There's some places where I've been able to use it even, I could jump so far and could feel things coming before I could even hear it coming. It's awesome actually. I think I'm going to miss it! The Force, that is. Though one of my friends, Anders, he told me that I had some sensitivity so who knows.

A lot of it has been hard. I'm sure we're going to win though. I'll be coming home before all too long, things are getting worse but it always does before the heroes come in and save the day! You don't have to worry. I'll do my best to not pick up any new scars, I know it worried you the last time I came over.

P.S.

Hello, this is Zig. I thought you would appreciate a clean copy. Zuza knows so don't worry about mentioning it this time.

Bye again!
