The Imperial War Droid is a huge 3 meter tall combat droid designed by the Galactic Empire for use as a siege engine, for facility defense, and to quell uprisings during the early part of the Galactic Civil War. It had disproportionately longer arms than legs, with exceptionally heavy armor on the upper body to protect the droid's head and sensor suite. To support its mission, this powerful droid comes equipped with a large blast shield and a right arm-mounted ordinance sprayer, which could be configured to either Incinerator or Carbonite-freezing modes.
