Physical description:

Dark gray leathery skin, eyepatch over his right eye which was lost. Lots of scarring thanks to burns, shrapnel, missing parts of his ear, nose, and a lattice of other marks of survival.

Personality / Quirks:

An'ker only speaks to fulfil the minimum requirement of communicating orders. He believes in action and administrative competency over all else, and lets his actions speak for themselves. While some believe this makes him uniquely wise.

Backstory:

While most of his background before enlisting with the Arcona Armed Forces is unknown, An'ker's service record is one of the most decorated in AAF history. In his over 30 years service, he has been the sole survivor of: seven Capital ship explosions, three repulsor tank casualties, five starfighter squadrons, and multiple Gonzati stations. Despite the losses, each of his stations was completed and aided in mission success. His survival has organically allowed him to climb the ranks

Some call it luck, others believe the old Noghri is simply too stubborn to die properly.
