

The Greater Orian Menagerie

Following the reconstruction of Naga Sadow's organization during the Dark Crusade, the government undertook a massive project to inspire tourism. They developed the Orian Zoo. This spans 2.3 square kilometers of land on Aeotheran. The original plan was to limit it to fauna found throughout the Orian system. It was set up with a minimal user fee and otherwise entirely funded by Clan Naga Sadow's government itself. Over time, privatization to local entrepreneurs occurred and user fees have increased.

In 35 ABY, after a petition from the stakeholders, the Orian Zoo was granted municipality status and given sovereignty of by-laws and given the ability to raise its own taxes only for the purpose of general law enforcement and environmental maintenance. The municipality was for 35 square kilometers, allowing for the development of housing and larger park features. The Orian Zoo was rebranded the Greater Orian Menagerie. In 38 ABY, construction began on theme parks revolving around the fauna theme, and was soon expanded to include fauna from other local star systems, as well as rarer animalia from all over the galaxy.

The massive aquarium project was given its own park, as were parks that featured rides, exhibits, shows, and an entire park dedicated to the food of the galaxy. The GOM board has purchased additional land around its municipality that it doesn't hold jurisdiction over for expanded hotels and basic amenities to support the Menagerie.
