Physical Description
Cole Drayson cut an intimidating figure. He had fine, medium-length black hair swept back from his face. His deeply sunken eyes were a piercing brown, usually drawn in a fierce glare. His face was scarred from battle, and covered by a rough thatch of black hair. Drayson was tall, and built like a tank despite being light on his feet. This, coupled with his deep, gravelly voice, made him a terrifying figure to come across in a dark alley.

Weapon Loadout
Twin, modified T-6 heavy blaster pistols

General Aspects
Hero By Trade	Razor Sharp
A self-styled badass, Drayson loves to play the role of a hero, riding in at the last second to crush the bad guys and save the day. To this end, he went out of his way to find trouble just for the chance to, metaphorically, crack some skulls.	Despite his hard features and gruff voice, Drayson has a sharp tongue and sardonic wit and is quick to mock both himself and others in casual conversation. Those who don't know him well usually felt he was insulting them, but Drayson is merely a straight-forward man who sees no need to sugarcoat things.
Personality Aspects
Light Side, Dark Side? Who Gives a S	Hard to Crack
Trained by the unaligned Gray Paladins, Drayson places little stock into the idea that the Force is split into dark and light. He acts based on his own sense of justice, wielding his skills in defense of the innocent or to strike down the evil.	His appearance, demeanor, and sardonic sense of humor painted Drayson as a dark man with a gruff personality. But, while he appeared hard and unapproachable, and often could be, deep inside he just wanted to protect others. He believed the galaxy was a hard place and found it took an even harder man to stand up to it.
Combat Aspects
I Could Hit 'Em Blindfolded	The Force is a Crutch
Drayson has sharp senses and a deep affinity for blaster pistols. In combat, he utilizes his dual heavy blasters with the skill of a true marksman, able to make the most impossible of shots. He often focuses so hard on his targets, that he is able to feel when they're going to move and when to fire.	As a Gray Paladin, Drayson relies more on his own skills, rather than aide from the Force. He rarely draws purposefully on his power, instead using it instinctively to strengthen is already lethal combat abilities.
