

TALDRYAN OPERATIONS BATTLE ASSESSMENT

FLEET ACTION TALSOC-KTFW-0208

OPERATION PURPLE VRELT

TALSEC-DCC-N73

Naval Intelligence Packet: BAC Undaunted

Surveillance Team DCC-N-E

Vessel: BAC Undaunted
Class: Cruiser
Model: Bothan Assault Cruiser
Manufacturer: Bothawui Shipyards
Length: 850m

Weapons Loadout:

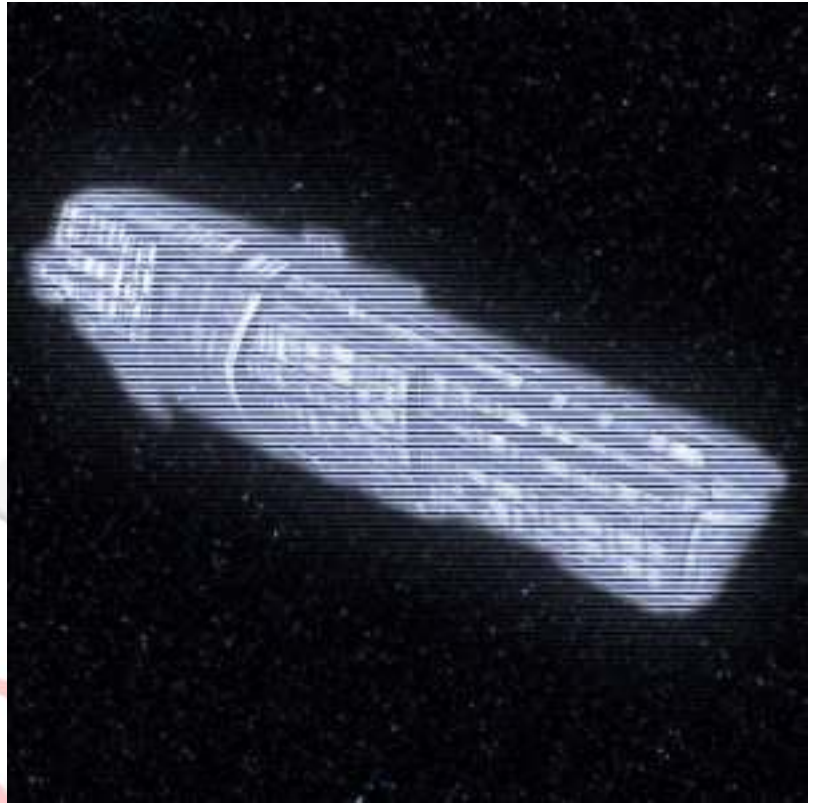

- 20 Turbolasers
- 24 Heavy Double Turbolaser Cannons in 6 Batteries
- 10 Ion Cannons
- 20 Proton Torpedo Tubes
- 4 Tractor Beam Projectors

Hull Integrity: Titanium-reinforced Alusteel - 100%

Weapons Integrity: 100%

Shield Integrity: Unknown

Sensors Integrity: 100%

Begin Brief

Designed to fulfill the role of the early Victory Class Star Destroyers, the Bothan Assault Cruiser is a valuable addition to every fleet. It comes standard with a significant amount of weaponry, as well as high mobility and powerful defensive shields and armoring. Little is known specifically about the Undaunted, and it is assumed that this is due to the fact that the ship has seen little to no action. Early attempts at infiltration and slicing attempts have given no information regarding the ship's command crew, though it is known that the ship normally plays host to the 19th Vessel Aerospace Wing.

The 19th is known to be a green training wing, fitting with the Undaunted's less than stellar reputation.

FLASH UPDATE: Following the Battle over Antei, there has been no indication that VAW-19 was aboard the Undaunted when it appeared above Korriban.

TACTICAL ANALYSIS:

Though the ship itself appears to be operating at peak efficiency, the lack of a solid command crew leads TALSEC to conclude that this ship will perform poorly if faced in actual combat. Unstable command positions will increase the likelihood that this ship will operate below accepted standards for the Iron Throne's Navy, making it a paper tiger.

Regardless of the inefficiency of her crew, and the green nature of her starfighter wing, the Undaunted is still a perfectly viable warship and should be treated with caution. Intelligence indicates that we know less about this particular vessel than nearly any other in the Iron Throne's navy. While we have speculated to the nature of this lack of information, it is also possible that the Iron Throne has merely managed to hide information on this vessel well.

