Begin Brief

The NSD Excidium II serves as the flagship of House Scholae Palatinae, and the gem of their Royal Navy. As such, it receives the finest crews from their versions of the Imperial Academy, and has a high level of battle readiness. Though not quite to actual Imperial standards, the highly skilled, loyal and efficient crew aboard Scholae Palatinae's ships mean that the ship can perform exception feats thanks to its advanced weaponry and defensive suites.

The Excidium II is commanded by Admiral Ail'en Sommetra who was in fact educated in the Imperial Academy, and served in the Galactic Civil War. The fact that she managed to achieve her own command in Palpatine's Empire despite its well-known prejudice against non-humans and women speaks volumes to her competency.

Perhaps her greatest strength is an unflappable nature in the face of adversity. Her experience has seen her commanding ships for Scholae Palatinae since the days of the Emperor's Hammer, and her loyalty to the new Emperor is unquestioned. She was not approached for asset creation.

The Excidium II plays host to the Scholae Palatinae 1st Starfighter wing. Consisting of a large number of mid-model TIE variations, this wing has its pick of Scholae Palatinae's best pilots.
