

Name: Tohnek

Assumed Location: Acatal, Elrood System

Force User Type: Yes, Juggernaut

Age: 44

Danger level: 7

Physical Description: Tohnek is a male Trandoshan approximately 2.1 meters tall and weighing in at around 107 kilograms. His scales are a dazzling white colour and are the result of an extremely rare genetic abnormality. His deep red eye colour too is the result of the genetic abnormality that caused his scale colour. He has a large scar running from the left corner of his mouth down across his chest to his right hip the result of a lightsaber duel that he lost. He is most often seen attired in the robes of a Sith.

Description of Abilities: An outstanding lightsaber combatant he has killed well over fifty individuals in open combat and duels, his only loss coming at the hands of an Elder from within his former Clan. Though he doesn't rely on his Force powers overly much that doesn't mean that they are lacking in anyway. He is particularly fond of using Telekinetic blasts in conjunction with his powerful lightsaber swings to drive his opponents back and capitalise on any openings the telekinetic blasts produce. He also uses Force healing in conjunction with his own natural healing abilities to shrug off near fatal wounds and has, on more than one occasion, grown back entire limbs lost in combat.