

Blade Ta'var Personality Matrix in Text Form

The foundation of Blade is a mix of optimism, a drive to succeed, sensitivity, and willfulness. Her willfulness, optimism, and drive to succeed make it so that she single-mindedly goes after her goals undeterred. Unfortunately, this can take the form of stubbornness, whether it be from a belief that everything is still going well (optimism) or pushing ahead anyways (willfulness). Blade's sensitivity makes her feel for her fellows in the galaxy in a much deeper way than most. As a result, she cares for their plights where others wouldn't. Unfortunately, this can lead her to judge others based on emotional pain caused to others rather than cool logic.

The support framework for Blade is comprised of passionate, competitive, determined, idealistic, hedonistic, judgemental, protective, and mischievous. Blade's passionate and hedonistic nature make for a wonderful combination when it comes to her individual pursuits, whether it be towards her goals or her pursuits of pleasure. On the flip side, this combo can lead to bad decisions that she would have rather take back if given the chance. Related, Blade's mischievousness can cause great joy to others, but some don't appreciate her pranks. Blade's determination and competitiveness make her a fierce competitor with high standards, causing her to not understand those who don't love to compete or those who give up easily. Lastly, Blade's protective, judgemental, and idealistic nature lead her to offer her services free of charge to the downtrodden whether they like it or not. She will exact justice at her high standard without being asked. Not everyone appreciates this service.

The insulation for Blade is self-importance, martyr, fun-loving, escapist, visionary, fanatical, sanctimonious, principled, focused, and confident. Blade has a vision of saving the world from evil, a combination of self-importance, martyr, and a visionary outlook. This is further supported by her fanatical upbringing by the Church of the Force to hate the Sith. This was achieved by the teaching of strict principles that Blade applies to the rest of the universe. Very few in the universe would agree with Blade's view of her self importance or the extend of her visions, but Blade can't see that. She escapes from her own darkness through escapism, fun-loving, focused and sanctimonious nature. Simply put, Blade views herself under a very bright light on purpose. It allows her to not give up on her dreams, but at the same time makes her blind to her own faults. This also tends to piss people off since she is confident enough to believe in her own world view despite what detractors would tell her otherwise.

Her projected personality includes playful, sexy, vivacious, stylish, full-hearted, cold, tasteful, spontaneous, daring, empathic, athletic, and boisterous. The image that Blade tries to project to the world is of one very different from her serious goals to rid the galaxy of evil. The universe sees her as a fun Zeltron and Blade falls in line with those expectations. Few non-Zeltrons would realize the difference, but Zeltrons can tell. As a result, non-Zeltrons see Blade as she wishes strangers to see her: playful, sexy, vivacious, stylish, full-hearted, tasteful, spontaneous, daring, and boisterous. Zeltrons would see a tamed version. It is a perfect cover to Blade's nefarious plans but it comes at a price. Most do not treat her as serious as she would like to be.

For example, the persistent belief that Blade is a drunk, rather than see it as a ruse to loosen tongues. Blade also invests energy in showing off her athleticism, which makes her popular among some crowds though some are turned off by perceived bragging. Lastly, depending on the person she tries to project empathy or a cold demeanor. She isn't great at the former, but her pheromones help out a lot. Though, she does excel at the cold demeanor, causing strangers and enemies to see nothing but an uncaring judge when Blade drops her party act.

Blade is perceived by others as self-Indulgent, sly, high-handed, prejudiced, hypocritical, playful, sexy, vivacious, caring, and committed. This splits neatly into the two sides that people often see of Blade. The "fun" side of Blade and the "judge" side of Blade. The "fun" side includes playful, sexy, vivacious, caring, and self-indulgent. This allows her to get along with others easily as long as she is in a party mood or actively putting on a show. Unfortunately, most people come to wrong conclusions about Blade which annoy her from time to time. She isn't going to make out with everyone and doesn't just party. The "judge" side of Blade includes sly, high-handed, prejudiced, hypocritical, and committed. She isn't perfect and her emotional nature leads her to have skewed judgements. She also has little to no sympathy to those she marks as guilty. As a result, those who are judged see her as someone who abuses her power to stubbornly judge others, despite the fact that Blade herself breaks her own rules. On top of that, she gathers evidence through sly methods rather than relying on direct testimony, which makes others feel mistreated and misunderstood. On a positive note, those she protects who feel wronged find her to be refreshingly harsh in the punishment of criminals and they give Blade their undying thanks.