

It may look bad but it's one HOT Blaster!

I'm going to be honest, this old smuggler gave me this "pistol" as a gift like it was second hand junk and by the looks of it i wasn't impressed at all with it. I had my own favorite weapon but since we were being chased by some pretty bad people I had no choice but to use it....

Once I pulled the trigger for the very first time I was shocked how accurate the gun was at close to mid range targets. It more than once got me out of a jam for sure. I even love the flash suppressor on the thing it worked like a charm and never gave away my position.

The only downside i have is when i overcharged the weapon once or twice and let me tell you ONLY do this when your life doesn't depend on it at all! It does deliver a massive hit to the target but my god does the weapon get HOT! I had trouble holding it after my first charged shot and the accuracy definitely goes out the window too. So as I said use this mode only if your not in a life or death situation.

Overall though I give the LPA NN-14 a 4 Star rating for its Flash suppressor, accuracy at close to mid range and it's overall sturdy construction. It loses a star for it's overcharged mode which makes the pistol to hot to handle! I do thank that smuggler for giving me this blaster and wish he was here for me to give him a big hug!

WORST. SECURITY. EVER!

I bought this droid since my employer was a stickler for security and he was always saying "If u hagwa find do good system mee'm koonah feed u tah doe Rancor!" So I was very motivated to buy something and this looked like a great droid.

OH the maker I was wrong! No only did it let in some sketchy droids, it didn't even check them for weapons. Which knowing my boss this is a task since everyone comes in armed, but this thing didn't even ask if they were carrying weapons and there were!

If that wasn't bad enough it just opens the door for a Jedi with no questions asked i mean like WTH! If it wasn't for the fact my boss was enjoying toying with him I would have been rancor food for sure, but the boss just left on his pleasure yacht with his new prisoners.

He was pissed though and I have to answer for this droid's failures when he gets back so take it from me and this ZERO star rating! DO NOT BUY THIS DROID!

It's Hotter than the hinges of Hell!!

YEE HAW! NOW THIS IS A FLAMETHROWER!

The D-93 or as I like to call it my portable barbecue shoots fiery cone of death for up to 75 meters. The conflagrine-14 fuel is easy to come across it's not propane but it does the job! As for the tanks themselves. They are very sturdy, but of course i would warn you to be careful. Puncturing your tanks in the middle of a fight turns ugly fast. I mean just ask my dear friend Jim-bob, well actually you can't someone shot his tank and he went up faster than a knife fight in a phone booth!

So yeah on that note there is no quick release system on the backpack so that is one major flaw for this otherwise superb piece of equipment. It's made well and it will do you well. So I can't recommend this enough and I give it 4.5 out of 5 stars. Once they fix that quick release system i can't see a reason why this wouldn't be a 5 star item! Go Buy it and Have some fun.

PS btw I'd also buy some armor full of cyramech because once you start using this thing it gets hotter than two rabbits screwin' in a wool sock!
