

Outer rims
Casino

Sitting at the table, Maximus Alvinus realizes there's a lot of credits in this game of Pazaak that he is involved in. 5,000 credits to be exact. The Thug and the Jedi were down to their last card. The count was currently at 19 and 18. It was Maximus's turn and he had no cards left. Neither did his opponent. Since the opponent decided to stand Maximus knew he had to hit and the only way to win, or tie was with 2 cards. He needed a 1, or a 2. The odds were against his favor. At this point he was credits deep and had to take the chance. After all that's what gambling is about. Risk, luck, and chances.

"I'll hit." Maximus said to the dealer.

As the tensions boiled the dealer slowly flipped the last card revealing a 1. Maximus had just won the credits by a shred of luck.

"Wooo. Now that's the adrenaline I'm talking about right there. Hey good game." The Jedi yelled while reaching out his hand to shake his opponents.

"Do not play those Jedi mind tricks here. I know you cheated and now good luck taking on my goons. Your life is a worthy price for cheating Jedi." The Thug replied.

"Woah, whoa, whoa now. Listen here. First off I didn't cheat. That's call bad luck for you. Second off your in my territory. Even if you did think your goons could defeat me which they can't. You would be hunted to the depths of the galaxy for killing a Jedi. Do you think 5,000 credits is really worth losing your life, or even a life on the run?" Maximus yelled.

The Thug looked around and shook his head in disbelief.

"You are right Jedi. Double or nothing if your willing though. I promise not to accuse you again if your willing to double the credit bet and play one more." The Thug responded.

"Your on. Let's do this!" Maximus replied back.