

Sir Fuzzy Floofington

Vanguard, Equite, Odan-Urr
Light Side Path, Order of the Jedi, Defender
Wookiee Male, Right-handed
Height: 2.22m, Weight: 150kgs

Physical Description

Sir Fuzzy Floofington has an average build for a wookiee. His brown-black fur is meticulously well taken care of and is often coiffed back so that he will look proper around his aristocratic peers. His deep chocolate-brown eyes are mesmerizing, which he uses to great effect during negotiations. His teeth are well taken care of, especially his canines. They are sharpened weekly for show, but he never actually uses them as weapons since only brutes act in such a manner.

Unlike most wookiee's, Sir Fuzzy Floofington puts a lot of effort into his wardrobe, dressing in the finest threads a wookiee can wear. The only exception is pants, which he hates to wear due to how restricting they are on one's movement. He often pairs his finest vests with a monocle and pocket watch. He would wear gloves, but sadly none fit him.

General Aspects

Helpful Pretentious Prick

Sir Fuzzy Fluffington may put on a show of haughty disdain for those of lower birth and display his superiority whenever possible, but this wookiee follows the Jedi code regardless. He views his mission in life to help those less fortunate, even if they don't agree with his view of the world. He will save anyone in need and has focused his Jedi training in the more defensive arts. In particular, he loves to extend the effect of his powers to others who are otherwise helpless. He will also willingly put his life on the line, especially if it makes him look like a hero. Some say he has a hero complex and others think he is a pretentious prick, but no one can deny that he helps out. Unfortunately, Sir Fuzzy Fluffington's pretentious attitude more often than not makes recipients of his aid hate him.

Can You Not?

Sir Fuzzy Fluffington enjoys the good things in life. Expensive ships, extravagant drinks, and good company are chief among them, but that is no excuse to act like an uncivilized animal. Self-control is important to the aristocratic wookiee. As a result, he severely judges those that overindulge in too much of a good thing. He won't sully his hands to help you, but will certainly try to convince you to stop. His favorite line in such situations is often 'Can you not?' followed by a haughty raise of his brow coupled with annoyance. As a result, Sir Fuzzy Fluffington often has problems making friends with the more hedonistic sentients of the galaxy, whom he considers beneath him.

Personality Aspects
A True Aristocrat Raised from birth to be an aristocrat's aristocrat, Sir Fuzzy Fluffington is the epitome of high society. Some sentients in the galaxy have some rather backward notions about what a wookiee is, but these are quickly corrected when they see this well-bred wookiee. From the way he carries himself to the off-hand disdain and reliance on servants, Sir Fuzzy Fluffington sets a standard all his own. He drinks expensive space-champagne, speaks in an elegant accent, attends formal balls, plays games of sport on well-manicured lawns, and often can be found lounging in a formal living room with a cup of tea. Some sycophants call him master, but aristocrat will do. Unfortunately, this often rubs those of lower birth the wrong way, resulting in sometimes violent confrontations that often end up ruining his best dinner vest.	Politeness Is Next to God Sir Fuzzy Fluffington is polite, always. Every second of every day he is polite, showing off his impeccable etiquette and social skills. This was drilled into him throughout his childhood and even evident from birth. Eyewitnesses insist that as a newborn infant he even stopped crying after his mother admonished him for being rude. Local stories aside, he has honed these skills to become a skilled diplomat, using his intellect and impeccable manners as a weapon to achieve his goals. Unfortunately, some sentient beings need a cold dose of reality and Sir Fuzzy Fluffington is often too late to deliver it.
Combat Aspects
Makashi Is An Art Form Sir Fuzzy Fluffington grew up in an aristocratic wookiee household that put a heavy emphasis on Makashi and "proper form". As a result, Sir Fuzzy Fluffington is an ardent love of fighting as an art form, in particular, the fencing mindset of Makashi. He takes this precise lightsaber form and adds an aristocratic flair that has a beauty all its own. Unfortunately, this can make his moves rather predictable as he will not execute an "ugly" strike, even if it will save his life. After all, you do need standards.	Mind Over Matter Sir Fuzzy Fluffington prefers mind over matter. If given the option, he will engage in warfare from a distance, making use of tactics and battle meditation rather than a brute-force attack. His favorite form of engagement is a space battle, where he uses his considerable intelligence, farsight, and tactics to turn the black theatre of war into an operatic play. He will sit proudly in his chair, albeit a much bigger one, rather than risk a direct hand to hand confrontation. Unfortunately, this leads Sir Fuzzy Fluffington to sometimes make callous choices for the sake of the "play". He may also be hesitant to engage directly even though he knows he should, giving opponents an opening.
