

Headshot/Image	“The Torchbearer”  Reaver Weapons Specialist  Unknown (believed to be Human Male), Ambidextrous  Height: Unknown (possibly 6’9”) Weight: Unknown (varies from 250 lbs to 300)
Physical Description The Torchbearer is a mystery. This being dons a full set of armor at all times with multiple thick layers of gold and silver plating. Alone, it sees itself. It is rumored to have blue eyes, with no hair, and a plethora of facial scars from surgeries, knife, and burn wounds. It is thought to be a tall and bulky figure, but it is truly unknown from the amount of armor it always wears.		Loadout Weapons <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>* D-93w Flame Projector</li> <li>* Vibroblade</li> <li>* Sonn-Blas FWMB Repeating Blaster</li> <li>* Stun Baton</li> </ul>
When Does It End? The Torchbearer refuses to acknowledge its existence beyond the Liberation Front. It simply doesn’t see beyond the end of the cause. Because of this, many fear what might happen when the wars against the DJB end and when The Collective wins. It creates tension when around The Torchbearer, but for The Torchbearer, it remains ignorant of such matters. Because of this, as a Liberation Front leader, it could be easier to manipulate it to an ending.		Mynock’s Hide Because of the constant armor usage and constant combat, when The Torchbearer is alone and without armor, its skin is leathery and wrinkled. Whatever combat beauty and fit form it once had is now a sweaty, droopy mess that is perfectly hidden behind the walls of the armor provided. If anyone were to see it behind the armor, they might think less of The Torchbearer.
Not My Words The armor of The Torchbearer contains a speaker. One never hears The Torchbearer speak, but one does hear the propaganda of The Collective constantly flowing through the speaker as if there is an infinite radio on the other side. In this way, The Torchbearer has no voice of its own. Therefore, it has no friends, and no real conversation can be had with it. It is an individual of pure suffering, unable to claw from this state.		Smuggier Than You With the exception of the cause, The Torchbearer views itself above almost all other beings and soldiers. To The Torchbearer money, politics, intelligence, survival, etc. all don’t matter if one is dead. Because of this, through it’s stance and walk, one can see The Torchbearer believing itself to be the highest form of life and death. This turns off others, especially those who would normally be sympathetic to such a being.
Fifth Horse of the Apocalypse “The Torchbearer” is built for combat and combat alone. It’s favoured weapon is flamethrowers, but it can use almost any weapon at its disposal. It attacks with full force and without mercy. For those who value its loyalty, it will do their bidding. However, it is also beyond the control of the Liberation Front.		Slam and Slide The Torchbearer has a specific fighting style designed to combine both Mandalorian Core with Sliding Hands. It’s uses the Dual Wielding skill to wield two different styles with two different sides of the body. However, it is so used to this style that it

Children, women, unborn babies are all enemies. A mistaken battle chosen for The Torchbearer is a battle that will be won through means that other beings cannot fathom.

cannot use both independently, meaning it cannot fully grasp either style to their fullest extent.

Notes/Extra

The Torchbearer comes from the unknown. It forged itself in fire and death in order to become the greatest soldier that ever lived. But now it lives as the weapon of the Liberation Front. Yet to be unleashed, it will melt skin, gut pregnant aliens, and force the DJB to face down an enemy that will stop at nothing to win.
