Lucious sports fair skin with dark brown eyes and black hair. As expected from a seasoned officer in the military, Lucious wears his hair well kempt and his beard trimmed at all times.

Character History:

Born on Naboo, Lucious deVray joined the Empire at the age of eighteen. Though he finished the academy among the top twenty of his year, the son of a local security officer and a dancer, wasn't accepted to serve the Future Imperial Leaders Military Preparatory School on Vardos, instead he was assigned to serve on a remote Military depot in the Kr'Tal system. Though not his preferred choice, the young officer served the empire dutifully and stepped up through the ranks quickly. But the higher he moved up the chain of command the more he became aware of the misstandings caused by the local government.

By the time the Kr'tal system declared its independency, Lucious has been promoted to the rank of Major and had married a beautiful local woman who would later give birth to their only child, Aryn deVray. Seeking ways to grant his daughter a good life, he saw his chance in the arrival of the Dark Jedi of Taldryan whom he quickly allied with to turn down the Moff who had declared himself King of the remote Kr'tal system.

Continuing to serve the local military under the new rulers of the Kr'tal system, Lucious deVray continued to advance through the ranks and eventually became the leader of Taldryan's Future Military Officer School.

During the devastation of Karufr and the attack on Nancora, deVray retook a more active role in the Taldryan Expansionary Forces and only recently adopted the role of a teacher for future officers.
