

A Submission to the Competition:
[RoS: Meridian Event Long] Miscellaneous - Propaganda

Written by Reiden Karr (10106)

To all those that seek freedom,

Howlader Talryda. This is a name that resides in the halls of power within the so-called Brotherhood. They would have you believe that he holds a great amount of power. They would have you believe that he works hard at his job. But the reality of the matter is a far different story.

Instead of working hard all day, he naps most of the time. Rather than doing something productive, he consumes beer and bamboo. Instead of having a discussion about things, he screams at those that are under his command, and even those that come to him seeking to provide recognition for the efforts of others.

This man is, in fact, no man at all. He is but a child, playing pretend with the role of someone important. Do not be fooled by the fake news that the Brotherhood churns out at every possible moment. This child is no hard worker; he is lazy. He lounges about all day doing not much at all. He pushes papers around his desk to make it seem like he is working. Yet, nothing actually gets accomplished.

To make matters worse, the Brotherhood provides him with toys! He plays with them while pretending to work. It is a cute set of stamps, one which reads APPROVE and another reading DENY. Based on information provided by our network of undercover spies, the DENY stamp shows signs of significant use, while the APPROVE stamp may as well be brand new.

Is this the kind of man that you really want to be in any sort of administrative capacity? I would certainly hope not. Break free from your cages, my friends. Join us today, and we will free you from your shackles.

Join the Collective, and together we will right these wrongs and put a stop to such heinous things.

Until every cage is broken...

--- Rath Oligard