

Name: Pib'Leni
Species: Twi'lek
Gender: Male

Appearance: A short yellow hued Twi'lek boy, equivalent in size to a young teenage Human, with a faint pale rosethorn pattern on his lekku. His face is weathered and thin from a hard life, his hands calloused and frame thin and wiry. But his green eyes are still clear and despite the ravages of hard labor, he carries himself with some poise.

Personality: Pib has a split personality, with the layer of a cornered animal and 'tough guy' beneath which lies a broken and scared boy. He tries to act older than his age and be the 'Hero of the People' that he was told to be, but inside he misses his dead grandmother and yearns for a family; any family that would have him.

Occupation: Pib'leni is a mercenary, runner and informant to the Dawn Collective. His most notable acts include starring in propaganda during the Citadel riots as a dying son, and the attempted murder of Tali Sroka.

Name: Karsha Vik
Species: Togruta
Gender: Female

Appearance: Elegant, refined, sculpted and dangerous. Equally much a groomed noble as she is a savage huntress, Karsha's deep red skin and bone white tribal markings contrast sharply with her piercing yellow eyes and afford a bewildering duality to her stature. How something so delicately elegant can move with the gait of an apex predator has often left many of her foes so bewildered, they've barely realized she'd fleeced them an hour ago. The alluringly dangerous curves often find themselves on full display as she prefers deep cut dresses of midnight black or deep purple that accentuate her natural beauty and danger.

Personality: Seductive, dominant, headstrong and goal-oriented, Karsha dislikes idle time and meandering discussions that clearly lead towards no conclusion. She is a woman of direct action, even if that action is in the form of subtle manipulation. She uses every tool at her disposal, from the depths of her cleavage to the rapier tip of her wit and the strength of her sculpted thighs if need be to ensure the Dawn Collective's mission is a success.

Occupation: "Diplomat" and "negotiator", occasionally "director". Karsha is a peerless manager of people, enforcing her will with ruthless efficiency, even when her subordinates think she is not. She can sabotage alliances, obtain information and deals or rouse people into outright rebellion if need be. And though her true strength lies in how she can make others do her bidding, the Togruta woman is still a native of Shili and many a would-be assassin has found that she handles a blaster and blade with dismaying proficiency if given half a chance. If those would-be assassins could talk, they'd surely recommend not giving her even a quarter.