Her qukuuf is a set of three red lines under each eye. In addition to that, she is adorned with other tattoos. These tattoos are in swirling patterns, though all of them are red to match her qukuff. They are most visible on her arms and face, but run across her entire body. She has steel eyes and black hair. She is always seen in her battle outfit, which is an armorweave corset, tactical pants with plenty of pockets and durasteel plating, and a thick black armorweave duster. | | Loadout <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * DX-2 Disruptor Pistol "Toy" * T-7 Ion Disruptor Rifle "Friendzone" * MWC-35c Repeating Cannon "Lover" * Flash Grenade * Flash Grenade * Frag Grenade * Adhesive Grenade * Smoke Bomb * Pirate Armor (See Physical Description) |
| General Aspects | | |
| Queen Of Misrule Before the poisoning of the Vatali Empress, Muriel was simply the captain of a Quorahi pirate ship. Since then, her crew were among the first to openly rebel against the Vatali and the rising Dominion. As a result many other raiders and pirates have flocked to her banner, seeing her as the leader to bring pain to their enemies. While she is not in charge of the unified Quorahi resistance, she is the face of the more violent side and has been named the Queen of Misrule by her followers. | | Orchestra Of Violence Muriel is a barbaric pirate. She takes pleasure in the simple parts of her life style. While she maintains a pretense of civility for the most parts, there are few acts which she will not be willing to do if push comes to shove. Killing innocents, children, drug use, excessive violence, and the like are all part of her life of choice. This ultimately defines the difference between those who follow her and the rest of the unified Quorahi Resistance, and the seeds for the division of their unity are the result of this mindset. |
| Personality Aspects | | |
| Selective Tastes Muriel doesn't trust many people. In her eyes Clan Odan-Ur as a collective are a bunch of hypocrites who preach peace but live for war. The Vitali are the agents who allowed for the oppression of the Quorahi. The Dominion are the remnants of a bygone age when the Vatali reigned supreme. To her, all of them are either possible enemies or already are enemies. However, she is not above taking in allies who are from any of these sides, and already has atleast one COU agent in her ranks and as someone she trusts with her plans. She values | | Garden Of Love Despite her vicious tendencies, Muriel loves to raise a garden. She spends most of her time away from the battlefield with her plants, and only lets those she trusts near them. |

| Force User allies for what they are capable of, and values every soldier to join her ranks. | | |
| Combat Aspects | | |
| Ruthless Raider Queen Muriel is not one to hold back in combat. Firepower tends to be her speciality, and she doesn't hesitate to open fire on a possible enemy even if the room they both are in is full of civilians. She often leads with disabling explosives before moving to her big gun to mow down as many people as possible. If that isn't enough to kill everyone in the room she tends to be at a loss, though as a former captain and now leader she tends to have people to cover for her so she can switch to a close combat set up with a pistol. | | Lead From The Front Muriel is many things, but a coward is not one of them. She is often racing to be the first to meet the enemy, her followers coming in behind her. She loves to be in the fray of the battle, considering desk generals to be the worst of all cowards. This has given her the reputation of someone who would never send a soldier to do something she wouldn't, when really it's just because of her bloodlust when battle starts. |
