

Cadre Name: Galactic Trade Department - Project Black

Cadre Type: International Diplomacy

Leader:

- * Jonaak Clarsi

Members:

- * Erick Jindo

- * Fae Deran

- * Robert Findallisher

Background/History:

The Principate's trade negotiations always tended toward the Imperial method of strongarm and scare tactics, despite them trying to rehabilitate their image. After they joined the New Republic, they needed to change their primary form of trade negotiations to keep things on the up-and-up. They did this on the surface. Project Black is an on-the-books department of International Diplomacy, which, on paper, serves a support team, but in actuality is the true source of all negotiations. They don't have true signing authority, but no deal gets done without the sign off of Jonaak Clarsi.

Additional Information:

Project Black operates as a top down organization of negotiators who are all hand picked by the Triumvirate. They are cut throat and end up giving the Principate an edge in all financial endeavours that are undertaken. Failure to provide favorable deals results in a removal from Project Black, and all NDAs signed by its members are unofficially punishable by death: preemptively.
