General Aspects

Due Diligence

When The character does things, they make sure everything is done correctly, no matter how long it takes. This means there are frequent delays in The character's work, but it's usually done right, at least.

Intergalactic Drifter

Having been born inside a star-ship as opposed to planet-side, The character has never had a particular world to call their home. They grew up in an environment that requires being of use in order to survive, and without the borders that breed patriotism. The allegiances of the galaxy mean little to them, only the strength of individual merit. They are most at peace when in space, and will take on any contract or mission that enables them to remain firmly seated in a cockpit.

This utter lack of affiliation often results in what can be construed as insubordination and disloyalty, putting them at odds with those that value such things.

Personality Aspects

All Who Gain Power

All who gain power are afraid to lose it, and The character is no exception. Some use their power for good, some for evil; The character, however, knows that these are just points of view. They are on a quest for greater power, and uses all their skills and abilities to ensure their supremacy, regardless of the consequences.

All Work No Play

The character considers their work to be the most important aspect of his life. This borderline obsessions with the "job" leaves little room for any kind of personal or social life, making it difficult for The character to relax and enjoy spending time with others. they excel in activities that relate to their work, but the idea of work-life balance is an altogether abstract concept.

Combat Aspects
Adaptive Combat Without the gift of the Force, The character has trained rigorously with a wide range of melee weaponry and technology to better handle opponents that are able to harness the mythical power. The character has been conditioned to fight against foes that are Force-sensitive and are able to compensate against fighting an adversary wielding something as deadly as a lightsaber. While this adaptive combat training makes them lethal in close quarters combat against any kind of threat, they are still at the mercy of a long ranged fighter, assailant or Force user that prefers to attack the mind instead of the body.	Go Go Gadget The character's passion for technology extends beyond his talent with Slicing. They truly believe that wars can be won with technology, not soldiers, and will always try to avoid direct combat if they can afford it. Instead, they prefer to deploy clever traps with Explosives, or turn technology against others as a weapon. The character would rather overload a circuit breaker to shock a guard into submission than to test his luck with his hands or a blaster. If removed from technology or their gadgets, however, The character can easily be overwhelmed. Fortunately, they have no qualms with throwing a smoke grenade down and running for dear life.
