		Telaris "Mav" Cantor          Grand Master          [Sith] [Sorcerer]          Male Human, Right Handed          Height: 1.9 m / 6'3" - Weight: 90.0 kg / 198 lbs
Physical Description		Loadout Equipment / Weapons
Mav is a tall, dark haired, dark eyed man. He wears his hair a bit long, but kept professionally. His build is slender, and his limbs look very long on his tall frame. His face is usually graced by a piercing stare of indifference from his dark black eyes, peering right over his slightly upturned nose.		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Lightsaber</li> </ul>
General Aspects
Experimental Sorcery          With his elevated position of power, Mav is able to use his influence to further his goals of discovering all the darkest secrets of the Force. This takes many sacrifices, but Mav is willing to make any that are necessary .		In Search of Immortality          Mav knows that the life span of one human is not long enough to learn all the mysteries of the galaxy. Many of his experiments with the Force center around the eternal prolonging of his life so that he may master the Force in its entirety.
Personality Aspects
Speaking in Riddles          Mav's knowledge is vast, leaving him believing that he is above everyone around him. Thus he often speaks in a condescending tone, and in a manner that takes a long time for most to think through to gather its meaning.		Pushed to the Edge          Mav is usually very composed, but when he becomes pushed to the very edge of his tolerance or in some circumstances, his life, he becomes a totally different person. When pushed like this, Mav becomes very aggressive, and his personal drive is worn on his sleeve.
Combat Aspects
Wait and See          Mav prefers to stay out of combat if at all possible. He knows that those who spend their life ingrained in combat tend to not live as long. He prefers to manipulate others to do the fighting for him.		Ever the Learner          Mav can learn many aspects about his opponents very quickly while in combat, or observing others combat. This can however lead to him prolonging battles so that he may learn more about his opponent than is necessary.

Notes/Extra (Include any backstory here)

Mav grew up in Coruscant throughout the end of the Clone Wars, and all through the Galactic Civil War. Trained in secret as a Sith Sorcerer, Mav then delved into the deeper secrets of the Force. He studied and trained with the Nightsisters, learning much from their particular applications of the Force. He also has spent a lot of time studying the works of Darth Plagueis, the Sith Lord reportedly able to prolong life through the power of the Force.

Mav rose through the ranks of the Brotherhood, patiently taking one step at a time, until now where he has taken the helm of the entire organization. He now has all the power he could ever ask for to use anyone and everyone for his experiments he conducts to make himself more powerful than any before and any who will come after. There have even been secret whispers of many Brotherhood members disappearing and never being heard from again. All whispers point to the Grandmaster stealing them away for his twisted and horrible experiments, but no one will ever step forward to challenge him and his authority.
