To the next of Kin,

I am writing this letter to send my regards in the wake of your family members death. War is a troublesome time, and not all survive it. Some are considered heroes for their bravery, and excellence of position. Some even inspire their comrades to show superior ability on the battlefield.

Unfortunately your loved one was not one of them. Their death was as worthless as their life. However, I managed to rectify this absence of value. Their remains have proven essential for the advancement of science.

Their sacrifice is appreciated.

Sincerely,

Rhylance,
