Personal Information

Varryn is not a very excitable or outgoing character, and tends to keep to himself. Despite not always showing it, he is highly dedicated and committed to his task on hand with the Collective. He is quite the workaholic and consistently keeps himself busy with planning the next strike on Collective enemies or signing contracts for the Capital Enterprises. Due to his not-a-socialite demeanor, his sharp edges allow him to tell it like it is. As a middle-aged man, he keeps his figure ready for war and his facial features intricately taken care of for diplomatic meetings. However, fear still strikes into those that do not know him from the look on his face. Due to suffering a permanent injury in battle, he lost the use of his left eye and it is sewn completely shut. He has grown used to this, though, and his other senses make up for the slight loss of his sight.

Character History

Early Life

Varryn was raised on the planet of Unov in the Arx System. He was born to a single courtesan mother and lived on the streets of Unov's capital city named Qarlen for most of his childhood life. When he was 12 years old, he witnessed his mother's murder by the hand of a Force-powered stranger without a known name. This caused anger and spite to form in his heart against anyone with Force capabilities. After his mother died, he managed to smuggle himself into the local Qarlen artillery forces and made his way up in rank. There he grew wise in military tactics and battle strategy, though also was weakened by his obsession with making money.

Desire for Dollars

He promised himself after his mother's death that he would never allow himself to live on the streets again, and started to illegally work with black market smugglers. Through his rank at the Barracks, he managed to successfully hide contraband in shipping containers of provisions for nearby cities for 5 years. At the age of 30, he was caught by a commanding officer, and was stripped of his rank. He wasn't left with nothing, however. The black market of Qarlen took him in as their chief financial keeper. There, he continued to usurp his power and greed for money.

Desire for D'AvonLeigh

An assassin for the Black Market of Qarlen struck the heart strings of 32 year old Varryn. Her agent name was Cobra, but Varryn was privileged to know her by her true name called D'AvonLeigh. She was a rather alluring Zeltron who used her powers of manipulation for her craft. The pair was determined through their love to find the killer of Varryn's mother and to put an end to the use of the Force in Qarlan once and for all. For four years, the couple managed to kill 100 force-users in the area through Cobra's seductive measures and Varryn's successful tracking. However, their escapades were drawn to a close after the Black Market's main leader, Dragourl, was revealed to be a Force-occultic member. Upon discovering the couple and their intent, Dragourl quickly sacrificed Cobra in an occultic bloodied ritual, and forced Varryn to watch. After slicing his eye open and breaking his legs, Varryn was thrown into the local swamps to die at the teeth of local reptilian species.

Collective Chancellor

Rath Oligard had been tracking the Force-killing couple for some time on the streets of Qarlan, and discovered Varryn in the swamps after his beloved D'AvonLeigh was tortured and killed. Rath nursed Varryn back to health in a local swamp hut, and promised to help Varryn get his vengeance so long as the troubled human would join his cause. With the price of Dragourl's head, Varryn agreed and left the planet of Unov for good after burying his Cobra. Once Varryn became the elected Chancellor of the Collective in 31 ABY, he moved to Nancora where he stayed until the conclusion of the Twelfth Great Jedi War. Nancora was left abandoned after the war left it uninhabitable. He now resides on the Collective's Cruiser Skylla as he plans the next course for action during the Thirteenth Great Jedi War.
