Physical Description		Loadout Equipment / Weapons
Physical Description of character. Can include: Telaris is a tall, middle-aged human. Despite being quite handsome for an average human, few would recognize he hails from the Hapan world of Terephon as his family is lacking many of the characteristic perfection of Hapans, perhaps indication of a non-Hapan ancestry. He has dusky brown hair and brown eyes, and a trimmed, athletic build.		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> * 1x Golden Lightsaber * 1x Inquisitorius Stiletto * 1x DL-44 Blaster
General Aspects
Tradition! Telaris was trained to respect the rhythms of the past. Be it a ritual before confrontation, a cleansing after a public engagement, or perhaps something as simple as a mere bow to an opponent before a battle. Whatever it may be, he must do it, and he expects the person across from him to respect that and do it in return.		"I said, put it down!" While nowhere near the extent of the infamous Kylo Ren, Telaris does have a blind rage point: a point at which he just breaks down into a psychotic rage. Whether it is dealt with by descending into a coma-like meditation, or by hitting the training range with a set of combat droids, or perhaps by throwing a lieutenant through a wall, the people surrounding him have learned to tread gently.
Personality Aspects
"Well, if you were to ask ME..." Telaris tends to not make many comments in company, choosing instead to listen and gather what he can. Oftentimes, however, he considers his own plan of action to be quite superior, and thus regards his companion(s) with the mannerisms of paying attention. Lip service is the watchword with Telaris.		Sir, Step Away From The Table. Telaris has a certain way he likes things. A scientific mind might label it as neuroticism; the layman would just call it 'Mental'. Things just. Have. To. Be. The. Right. WAY. While it's not detrimental if things are out of their natural order, it will bug him and prevent him from being able to be fully present in any moment, his attention unavoidably focused on... that... one.... "Excuse me, just one moment."
Combat Aspects
Mr. Sparkletoes Telaris likes to flash himself as much more impressive than he is; disorientate the enemy, don't you know. An elaborate lightsaber drawing and ignition, a few illusions, and some suggestive words. It doesn't always have to be much: it just has to be		The Force Is A Hammer There are two main philosophies regarding the Force: the first, and the more prominent of the two, is that the Force should be used both as offense and defense, passion and compassion. The second is that the Force should be used to complete demoralizing. And as we all know, the demoralized enemy is much easier to dispatch effectiveness with total lack of restraint, as a weapon to pound the enemy into a submissive pulp. It is this second doctrine with which Telaris treats the Force: a hammer by which he will shape the galaxy.
