Physical Description

The tall frame of Telaris Cantor is cut from sharp angles and a rigid posture resulting from years of service to the Brotherhood. His musculature favors that of an athletic long-distance runner who possesses the capacity of great endurance. A handsome and clean-shaven face is offset by complemented by warm brown eyes and dusky-brown-hair. Cantor's voice, like his appearance, resonates with calm and reassuring tones.

Loadout: Primary

The Manager (General Aspect)

Telaris Cantor is a superior manager of projects and task-oriented workflow. He is driven by a keen ability to execute goals and ensure processes lead to project completion. This no-nonsense approach to project execution can be labeled as robotic and lacking the feel of true leadership.

Diplomatically Envious (General Aspect)

Telaris Cantor is a shrewd diplomat capable of evaluating friend and foe and maneuvering himself into an advantageous position. This skill has served him well throughout his years but can often haunt him as others become envious of his success.

Maverick In The Middle (Personality Aspect)

Telaris Cantor's life has been filled with trials and tribulations that have shown him the benefit of the Light and Dark Side of the Force. Relying on teachings from both sides of the Force, Mav feels unchained to the dogma many of his predecessors adhered to. This middle ground can result in harsh criticism by both Jedi and Sith due to their belief that Cantor's stance in the middle shows a lack of devotion and belief to their cause.

Danger Zone (Personality Aspect)

Telaris Cantor has supreme confidence in his abilities and can be a Maverick in certain situations. While often successful, this behavior can be dangerous for himself and those around him.

An Illusion (Combat Aspect)

Telaris Cantor can engage in one on one combat, but often prefers to hide behind his mastery of tricks and illusion. Using the Force extensively, Telaris will often defeat an opponent before they realize they have even been engaged in combat. This ability sets him apart from the Grand Masters of the past and has received criticism as cowardly.

Unusually Winning (Combat Aspect)

Telaris Cantor does not like to win battles in obvious ways. Defeating opponents in face-to-face combat can often lead to grudges and continued combat. Telaris prefers to defeat his opponents in the long game by utilizing patience, cunning, and his extensive intellect. This technique can be brutally effective but is often too slow for the impatient leaders in the Dark Brotherhood.

Notes/Extra (Competition Purposes)

This character sheet is a recreation of the Dark Jedi Brotherhood website built in PowerPoint. All assets on this page were built by hand except for the background image and paper doll capture of Mav's existing weapons on his invalid sheet. I added a small section, indicated by  under the physical description tab to account for the competition requirements to list Mav's weapons. Additionally, this character sheet was designed to differentiate Mav from the other Force using Grand Master's in this club. Mav's usage of mind trick, illusion, and concealment are very different from the sovereign level set up used by Pravus and Ashen. This was done on purpose to make Mav's character as unique as possible.
