Abstract:

The Workplace: Some may dread it, others actively avoid it. Then there are those who have chosen to be non-productive members of civilized society. Me, I have never been happier to do my job. What is my secret? Why is it that I enjoy my work so much more than you seem to enjoy yours?

In this presentation I will give you a series of steps for you to take to ensure you are satisfied with your employment. I will give you the tools to be your most productive self, to better ensure your worth in society. We will end this presentation with a series of volunteer tests, created using a highly successful algorithm, which will allow me to point you in a better direction. A direction that will make sure you are used to the fullest of your potential. Your worth depends on your ability to contribute to society.
