

Soldier Retention

My name is Kano and for my TED talk we will be discussing the importance of not shooting friendly soldiers no matter how much they suck at their jobs. I know this sounds outrageous but believe me, some people look down on this activity. If a soldier is doing something wrong words of encouragement should be used first. An example would be to threaten the soldiers life and then shoot him later for not following orders. Join me for my full presentation for more great tips as well as morale boosting exercises such as bolt dodging and blindfolded rock dodging.
