

Great Jedi War 13: The Movie

Title: "Discord!: Episode 13 of the Great Jedi War Saga"

War Action/Drama

In this thirteenth addition to the long-running Great Jedi War Saga franchise, the framing will be on the negotiations between the Dark Jedi Brotherhood emissaries, Collective emissaries, and the emissaries of a new faction called the Severian Principate. As both the Brotherhood and the Collective vie for an alliance with the Principate, the true focus of the movie will be a conflict at Principate-controlled Thuvis Shipyards in which Clan Plagueis of the Brotherhood confronts the Principate and Collective.

Since a good portion of the movie will be dedicated to the various physical conflicts between the three groups at the shipyards, I think it would be best to focus on war and action for the movie, with a smattering of drama and humor where it is appropriate. Of course, the overarching plot of trying to win an alliance can give great tension where it is needed. With a few twists and turns tossed in, this can be yet another strong entry in the franchise that will be sure to lead to future success and spoils.

Cast:

Evant Taelyan played by Nicholas Hoult

Pwimtar Takrid played by Ron Perlman

Aemilius Crassus played by Steve Buscemi

Harvey Daley played by Aaron Taylor Johnson

Varryn Antillus played by Djimon Hounsou

Ronovi Tavisean played by Marion Cotillard

TuQ'uan Varick played by Karl Urban

Zand Hammor played by Paul Giamatti

Due to the large variety of ships on display, some models could be sold with enough variety to attract a large crowd. Action figures are, of course, a must. And most importantly when it comes to marketing, we need to get our movie's name onto bags of salad. I don't know why, but I saw Star Wars doing it, so it must work.