

Survival in the Unknown

Zaric was on board his starship in remote regions of space, he was checking the data of the mysterious coordinates on his ship's data bank, all he notice was he was in an uncharted system, he readied the hyperdrive, when sounds of alarms went off loudly, and he view the screen of his ship and notice that his engine has malfunctioned, and was heading for a remote planet, he presses the distress button.

As the starship entered the planets orbit, the heat of entering blows up the engine, the ship crashed in at the base of a mountainside. The intense crash knocked Zaric out cold.

A few hours later, Zaric woke up and rubbed his head, he turns on the ships Computer to see where he is but there was no signal to, he heads stop the supply hanger to check his supplies, he estimates that he only has enough food and water for 2 months, but was not really sure.

As the days past, the supply of food and water was running low he starts investigating the surface of the planet, finding streams of water and numerous wildlife he never seen. He scopes the area, and he could only see forests stretching across the visible plains of his, the answer was clear to him, it was matter of Life or Death.

Zaric made his decision, to survive at all cost and hoping his ship's distress signal reached Port Ol'val. He goes back to the ship's supply hanger and took with him his vibroblade and blaster rifle, he used his knowledge of survival, all though this was not the survival he was use to, he started hunting and gathering, fending of wild predators and scavengers, he knew if wants to survive he has to rely on the Force to guide him, he spends time meditating to lose his sanity but as weeks past this got harder.

As days turn into weeks and weeks into months, hope was fading and faith was slipping as he starts entering madness, he took his vibroblade and took off his robes, he looks at his Vibroblade thinking to himself, "I guess I wasn't strong enough.. I am sorry, Master, as he place the tip of the blade to his chest, he looked to the sky noticing a Starship entering to land. He readied his rifle, but recognised the ship, it was the Voidbreaker, he falls to his knees and his friend came to help him inside, and he said, "Thank you", He passes out as he was pale.

Zaric was helped into the Starship and was laid down in the medical bay, his body temperature was low and he lost a lot of weight due to difficulties getting nutrition. The Starship was finally on it's way to Port Ol'Val. Zaric constructed a holocron of his survival and isolation, stating to his friend, "This was the most difficult trial I ever faced. I lost hope and faith, and yet I survived to tell the tale."