

Port Ol'val: Market District

Located in a section of Jarem Plaza, the Market District seems to always be bustling with activity be it transactions or trading. The district is littered with kiosks with merchants selling several different items, from exotic food to unique and bizarre items. The kiosks are scattered throughout the district, creating a seemingly endless maze. Upon entering the district one might notice the distinct aroma of cooking food and the scent of poor alien hygiene. Beneath its generally rough exterior is something rougher and darker and home to criminals and their nefarious dealings.

Because of the maze-like structure of the market, the area seems to reach capacity around a few hundred people. In the claustrophobic environment, brawls tend to break out in the midst.