The movie is a classic war picture focused on the emotional and physical impacts of the conflict. How the events began, what idealistic leanings started the conflict and moved the two Clans to war. The protagonists from both sides go into the fray eager and willing and after continued loss and death become jaded and ambiguous to the outcome. Several large scale battles are shown but these are the backdrop to the smaller internal battles waging within the cast of characters.

- The first scene itself

The first scene begins with the members of Clan Vizsla coming back from a mercenary run. The opening scene depicts Roarj, Rulvak and Appius trading banter over the mission parameters, the credits, the bounty, and the return flight path. The banter is warm and friendly as the members calm down from the high of battle. Suddenly over the intercom of the ship a distress call comes in from Zsoldos. The ship jumps to lightspeed.

On the Plageius side Scudi and TuQuan prepare in their own way as their ships drop out of lightspeed above Zsoldos as they reflect on the decisions made above their paygrade that brought them here and their animosity towards it.
