

The Eye Of Lexicus

ID Classification: LEX-12895-E

Threat Assessment: High

Location of Discovery: Malachor - Ruins of Napheet

Physical Aspects: The outer structure is composed of a shaped and laser-cut alloy, name unknown. Traces of pure Orichalum, Auradium, and Beryllius Found. The Inner red crystal is a Dark Side Energy imbued Kyber crystal. The black center is pure Marilite.

Observations: The artifact was found within the tomb of a Sith Lord known as Lexicus. When grabbed by an excavationist, the raw energy stored within the crystal warped his mind beyond repair.

It is thought that this artifact, when used by a powerful Force User, can affect and improve their sight/vision within the Force to godly levels. Negative side effects of this artifacts use has been damage to the psyche, especially to those with weak will and mental resolve.

Found with this artifact was a warning. It was written in the Sith language, and when translated seemed to be in a poetic form.

TO ALL WHO CHOOSE TO GRASP MY EYE
IF WEAK, YOUR MIND
SHALL WITHER AND DIE

THE RIGHT TO SEE
MY VISIONARY GAZE
IS NOT FOR ALL
BUT THOSE SURVIVED, SHALL RAZE
