

The tome of Darth Atroxa is a heavy leather-bound collection of scriptures of a skilled Twi'lek Lord of the Sith who lived over three-thousand-five-hundred years ago. It was recovered from Korriban in the wake of the events of the eleventh Great Jedi War from a tomb near the base of operations used by those allied to Darth Esoteric where it was buried with the remains of the female Sith and her disciplines. The tome itself contains a lot of private studies of the Sith where she describes rites that focus on channeling one's emotions during combat with the first page reading the following poem written in the Tanka style:

Embrace the Darkness
awake it with Emotions
a furnace untamed.

Harness the fire within you,
your true powers will unleash.

Shape it to your will Become one with the Darkness
Break free from your chains.

Your Powers be infinite, rise as Dark Lord of the Sith.
