Description of Fallacy: The Ancient Sith Dark Side Extractor

This old relic can distill the very essence of the Dark Side from unimaginable tainted objects, such as jewelry, flora, fauna etc. It does so by being attached to an object tainted by the Dark Side by bolting it on. An incantation is needed to activate the device, recited as a poem in the Ancient Sith language. The hose which connects to the inlet that is bolted on has a pressurized pump to extract any fluids from said object. Even if the substance is solid, it somehow seems to heat up to melting point levels.

When the extracted fluid enters the collection chamber it is surrounded by four enchanted presses, each tainted with the Dark Side. One from below, above, left and right. These will use such high pressure that any Light escapes via the outlet on the opposite side of the collection chamber.

Once finished, the raw energy is collected in a vial in liquid form. This extraction can be enchanted or used in many ways that some would consider unnatural.

Incantation:

Forged within the depths rendering it unbreakable
The hands which have touched us were flawless
Lacking spells in future times made us unwakeable
Those who were capable are now jawless

We need a new voice to be strong and trustworthy
One we can count on to propel us into the new age
Should they succeed none will be more praiseworthy
Fail and this boon will become your cage

We wane and hunger, only knowing atrophy
Please let us feed do not fail
When left alone too long only catastrophe
Last Sith's life ended with a Banshee's wail

Do not worry about the object
Make yourself strong and you will be safe
We are here and should let you collect
Only the dark side we will chafe
