Golan III - Name the Station

The new name should be called Saxon.

It is named after the two brothers, Gar and Tiber Saxon. They were the both Governors of Mandalore after the Imperial take over of the planet. They worked with the infamous Sith Darth Bane.

Both brothers had fought to end the mediocre life that Mandalore had fallen under from the previous rulers that made the Mandalors a timid race. They brought out the best of Mandalorians and made them once again a fighting warrior society that had helped the Sith before to destroy the Jedi in the Old Republic.

Gar Saxon was a Mandalorian warrior who served under Darth Maul, aiding his escape from Darth Sidious, and commanding his forces during the Siege of Mandalore alongside Rook Kast, until Maul betrayed them and allowed them to be captured alongside the rest of their men. Following the Galactic Empire's takeover of Mandalore, Saxon became Imperial Viceroy and Governor, wiping out the protectors, but was ultimately defeated by Sabine Wren and killed by Ursa Wren.

Tiber Saxon was Governor of Mandalore and brother of Gar Saxon, whom he succeeded after Gar's death. During the civil war between the Mandalorian resistance and the Imperial government of Mandalore, Tiber deploys the Arc Pulse Generator, a weapon designed by Sabine Wren, whom he captures and forces to finish the weapon. Eventually, Sabine destroys the weapon with the Darksaber, causing an explosion that kills Tiber.

Canon information on Saxon brothers

This should be the name of the new station