

[RoS: Escalation Phase I] Graphics and Miscellaneous - The Machines of War

Name: Wulf Class Space Superiority Carrier

Rarity: Rare

Cost: 500,000 credits

Description: The Wulf Class Space Superiority Carrier was designed to bridge the gap between the Executor class Super Star Destroyer and the standard Imperial Class Star Destroyer. The design began its inception shortly before the emergence of the First Order but was shelved due to lack of resources; it was not until the defeat of the resurgent empire that the design appeared again, when the designs were acquired by Arx and development began.

The ship combines the size and power of a large Star Destroyer, with that of a dedicated Fighter and Planetary Assault Carrier. The Wulf Class is equipped with a deck-length carrier bay with openings at the top, sides and base, allowing multiple ships of various sizes to be launched simultaneously. The ship is also equipped with multiple shield generators alongside laser and Turbolaser batteries which allow it to hold its own against fighter and capital ship attack, permitting it to operate independent of an escort fleet for a limited period if required, however it is more effective when combined as part of a fleet support network.

The Wulf Class carries a basic compliment of 4 wings of fighters, 2 wings of dedicated bombers and 2 wings of heavy assault craft such as Sentinel or similar. In addition to its main bay, the carrier has a modular feature that allows it to either accommodate a further 2 wings of fighters and 2 wings each of assault craft and bombers or be equipped with a planetary assault company, with storage and docking for AT-AT or similar as well as prefabricated Garrisons and Drop ships.
