Description: The Raider-E is a crowning achievement of the Severian Principate. Using the same basic frame as that of the 150 meter long Raider-II class, the Raider-E has been fitted with a large, experimental ion-cannon, dubbed the Eye-1 Tactical Cannon.

With this overcharged ion cannon, the Raider-E Corvette is able to scattershot ion blasts across enemy fleets in order to disable multiple enemy fleet assets. While it retains the hyperdrive capability of the base Raider-II, the Raider-E has sacrificed storage space, armaments, and shielding in order to devote more power and resources to the Eye-1. The experimental weapon hangs below the Raider-II on an enormous gimbal mount allowing the Raider-E to aim its experimental weapon, albeit slowly.
