

Dandoran: Nevo Race Track Execution Pit

The Nevo Race Track serves as one of the biggest attractions on Dandoran. From Pod & Swoop Racing to Akk Dog Betting, all manner of mayhem and death has filled the long muddy path. Instead of a Sarlacc or Rancor pit, as is favored by other Hutts, the finish line - or starting line, depending on your point of view - served as Pyzah the Hutt's favourite execution spot. It provided everything needed for seeing the last minutes of a pesky smuggler or rebellious slave.

Flanked on either side by tall bleachers that seemed to reach up to skyscraper heights, the Execution Pit is nestled in a forested area. Even with the cleared muddied ground, Pyzah has seen it entertaining to leave large thick roots protruding from the soil. The mud is deep enough at some points to require wading and thick enough at others that all manner of footwear have been lost in its grasp, not to mention the remains of previous victims of The Pit.

All manner of onlookers flock to see Pyzah's spectacles. The tall bleachers are filled with the well-to-do and miserly denizens of Dandoran's seedy underbelly, but the peanut gallery is filled, too, at a cheaper price that comes with the risk of being thrown into the race track at any time.

Few have entertained the Hutt enough to receive a reprieve from his cruelty.