

Frogdogs!

We have gathered here for one reason! The ProBowl is coming! The epic match between us and these scums, the Rotworms. I am sure that they will use all dirty tricks they come up with to defeat us for they lack honour and sense of fair play. But we shall prevail, because we represent honour, courage, strength, loyalty and honesty! These values are eternal and they provide the light that shall never get extinguished. The light of these values will guide us to the victory over our sworn enemies!

They call themselves the Rotworms and they are indeed worms. As they call themselves worms, their fate shall be like the fate of worms. Burnt, poisoned with worms repellents and crushed under our heels. They have no chance against our might and skills!

Their arrogance and stupidity, efficiently packed in each of the Rotworms, made them challenge us. Their challenge is an offence to us and they shall pay dearly with their own blood for so severe lack of respect towards us. They woke up the dragon in their stumbling around, which they had not expected, I believe.

When the ProBowl is finished, there will not be even dust remaining from the Rotworms. For we, the Frogdogs, are a flame of justice that will burn them down. There is nothing that can stop us from achieving victory. We have courage. We have strength. We have skills. We have determination. We have passion. All these qualities make us superior in comparison to the Rotworms. They are just a minor obstacle on our way to the victory and we will easily overcome this insignificant difficulty on our path to glory and treasures that are beyond our imagination.

Credits, equipment, death sticks, spice, starfighters and possibly an Imperial Star Destroyer (though these are just unconfirmed rumours) are all waiting for you to grab! Do not let anyone or anything to stand on your way to earning riches that are rightfully yours! Do not let anyone or anything to stop you from earning the glittering prizes that you all crave and deserve!

All you need is to win the ProBowl! All you need is to defeat the Rotworms! If you do, your names will be spoken by every lips in the Galaxy as the ProBowl will be broadcasted through the Holonet all over the Galaxy! Your children, grandchildren, grandgrandchildren and the grandgrandchildren of your grandgrandchildren will poudly discuss your achievements at school, when they will discuss their heroes. And even if no one asked, they would talk about your success and constantly repeat stories about your bravery and dedication.

However, if you fail, your name shall be forgotten. You shall be cast into the rift of oblivion. Even your dearest family will feel too ashamed to talk to you in your lifetime and to talk about you after your death. They will sever all ties with you and they will deny any relationship with you. They will not only erase all memories about you, but they will destroy any evidence that might prove that you were a member of their family. If you fail to defeat the rotworms, I will help them myself, because I will feel embarassed with your failure and the fact that I chose you to take part in the ProBowl as a Frogdog. If you fail, all Frogdogs will be insulted by your incompetence and they will track you down in the farthest corners of the Galaxy and exact their revenge on you for causing bad PR about them!

Now, do the voodoo that you do so well! Dismissed!