

The Small village is located at the coast.

The name of it is the Filor.

The natives are the group of Evokes and Wookies who train themselves into fishing at marine population there.

The plan of the buildings is in the half circle with border made by the coast.

Next to it they have a paddock full of Humbabas as a source of meat, and also shelter for trained Ganjuko like a shepherd dog and as additional protection for the village.

The village is also surrounded by hills which protect it from strong winds.

Everything is connected to each other with chimneys built from stones and bones and fire inside of them to scare of wild predators from attacking settlers.

The Evokes builded small towers around the village to have a view of oncoming danger from behind the hills, and too signal it to the Wookies, who can drop the hard big ball shape rocks down at the attackers from the hills.

They focus on sell of the fish and craf5ing from bones.
