

Emperor Kamjin "Maverick" Lap'lamiz

Threat Level - High

Kamjin is an elder member of the Brotherhood who has recently returned after a nearly two decade absence. Little is known about what occurred during the past decade when the Emperor's Hammer began exploring the Unknown Regions and his reappearance with the Brotherhood.

Currently he is serving as the Emperor of Clan Scholae Palatinae, a clan he helped found nearly thirty years ago.

Combat Abilities:

While Kamjin is an accomplished pilot, having served in elite squadrons during his youth, his ground combat abilities are of a moderate threat level.

His primary weakness is his need to showboat. He'll often prolong a fight to toy with his prey. His typical opener is either hand-to-hand or single bladed combat which will escalate to either utilizing his dual sabers or connecting them into a saber staff.

When he's either outmatched or ready to finish a battle he'll progress to Force Lightning.

Combat Recommendation:

Assume a defensive, or weakened, posture and feed his ego with pleads for mercy. Then attack him with close quarter combat when he approaches to gloat over you.

Weaknesses:

Kamjin has recently reunited with his daughter. She is an impulsive youth and often prone to danger. Analysis suggests that Kamjin can be manipulated if his daughter's life is threatened.

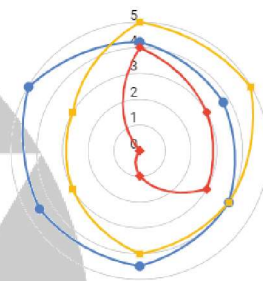

There is no current information regarding the whereabouts of his estranged wife and three sons.

Force Powers:

Kamjin's greatest strengths have been more political and strategic in value. He's demonstrated a proficiency at Battle Meditation during the civil war within the Caperion system and earlier large-scale engagements. It is strongly recommended that no weak-willed individuals approach him as he enjoys leveraging the Jedi Mind Trick ability to manipulate individuals
