Tactical Appraisal: A Chandrilan, Marl is ambitious but patient. An enduring combination. His mind is protected and shielded by the Force and his skill with a lightsaber is on par with some of the best duelists in the Brotherhood. He is strong willed and has a steely resolve. Yet, he is extremely loyal to his Clan and is dedicated to the people. If something were to happen to them, I question the extent of his resolve. Extremely protective of his Padawan Siggii Animo. A sixteen year old girl from Batuu. She is powerful with the Force but her powers are under development. She lacks the control of her Master. But she is young and impressionable. When we turn Marl's friends to our cause or put them in life threatening situations, how will he react I wonder?
