Background

Selika Roh is a Sith Master and the Consul of Clan Plagueis. Born during the waning years of the Galactic Empire, she grew up within the Noble Houses of Empress Teta. Political turmoil following the fall of the Empire saw the overthrow of the royal government during her youth followed by years of captivity, resulting in her discovery of the Force abilities that eventually lead her down the path to the dark side. Her search for the training to fully utilize her skills brought her to the Sith faction lead by Zoraan, and eventually to the Dark Brotherhood during the Dark Crusade.

Abilities

Unlike many Sith, Selika focuses on a few aspects of the Force at the expense of more across the board skill. Favoring illusions and mental abilities over others, she has never fully developed much of the more physical Force skills. In some areas, like the healing arts, she shows no proficiency at all. Limiting her focus, however, has allowed her great ability but still greater knowledge in how to apply her skills than many others of similar power and skill.

Selika's most devastating ability lies in her knowledge and skill in powers such as illusion or mind trick. She has focused on these skills mostly because she feels that attacking the mind is the most direct path to the defeat of her enemies. For times when she is confronted by those who have not neglected the mental battlefield, Selika has applied herself to the study of powers that allow her to engage her foes while still keeping herself separated from them as she does with mental assaults.
