

Name: Stres'trong'armis

Alias: Strong

Family Connections: Scion of the Garmis military noble house of the Chiss Ascendancy, the family located on an Ascendancy-controlled world. Target viability: low.

Known Connections: Politely known as a 'man-slut', Stres'trong'armis has most recently been seen in the company of the Twi'lek known as 'Tali Sroka'. A powerful Force User in her own right, Sroka's own issues (loss of child, instability) are detailed in her own dossier.

Summary: Do not engage while together, observations of them complementing one another's abilities have been made at length.

Background: Raised from an early age to be a soldier and leader of men. Military basic and advanced training. Average to moderate scores with ranged weapons (Slugthrowers, Blasters). Excelled at close combat and melee weapons.

Summary: Engage at range if possible.

Probable Equipment: Favors a large hammer, either powered or the 'purge' variety when engaging saber-wielding enemies. Favors heavy armor, with multiple built in defenses and layers of shield-projecting equipment (personal generator, Mandoa vambraces, riot shields, armor containing mag-field coils). Has been known to utilize a rocket pack with mixing results, but does provide an incredible range of motion.

Summary: Strongly engage at range.

Target is known to attempt to inspire troops via speeches. Is very loud. Known to have speech modulators installed in armor for even greater volume.

Summary: Easy to locate.

Target is known to be a versatile fighter, and not to be taken lightly. Teamwork and ranged attacks from multiple vectors is a viable strategy. Do Not Engage One on One.