

Arak's Fine Clothing and Tailoring

Found in a remarkably well kept two story structure in one of the nicer neighborhoods of Aliso City , Arak's is a clothing shop that caters to mostly high end clientele, though pretty much anyone can find something to wear there. From the latest fashions from the Core Worlds to the most practical of work clothing, the store's graying Bothan proprietor, Arak Eli'mnas stocks pretty much anything. Despite its overall strong reputation for being one of the finest clothiers on the planet, Arak's is even more known for something else entirely.

Arak is known by many to have connections all over the galaxy and can acquire hard to find and often illegal items, provided the purchaser has the credits to pay for it. Arak also has a reputation as an information broker and often tells wild stories of his time working for the Bothan Spynet and fighting with the Rebel Alliance. Whether any of this is true is an open question, though it is clear to many regular customers that for whatever reason Arak is not welcome on Bothawui. While his past and stories might be in doubt, what isn't in doubt is Arak's ability to make a fine cloak or even a robe for a discerning Force user.
