Re: Storage Item - Sabotaged

As indicated in the accompanying report, I came across a strange storage device in use by the Liberation Front - see mission drawing below. Upon forcing the storage device open, I heard the cracking of glass and a liquid was released that dissolved the paper material instead. My estimate is this self-sabotaging device is a primal security measure adopted by the Collective for the secure transfer of critical information. While discussing this with acquisitions they estimated it was a cryptex.
